

Arcolor Sofa
2017
Jaime Hayon

The Arcolor sofa is a modular system designed around the classic geometry of the arch. Notice how a strong coherence and the rhythmic repetition of the shapes recall the Roman aqueduct, adapting well to the various contexts, both public and private, lobbies or stays. The consistency of this approach also applies to the legs, with arches that touch the floor. The sofa has a base with legs in lacquered wood in the colors of the Arflex collection, metal frame, shaped polyurethane padding with differentiated density.

While many modular systems of today are apparently more square - in order to improve their modularity to create different configurations - Hayon has used the disciplined use of the arc to create something organic.
