

DC08 BASIS
WORKSTATION
DESIGN: DAVID CHIPPERFIELD, 2018

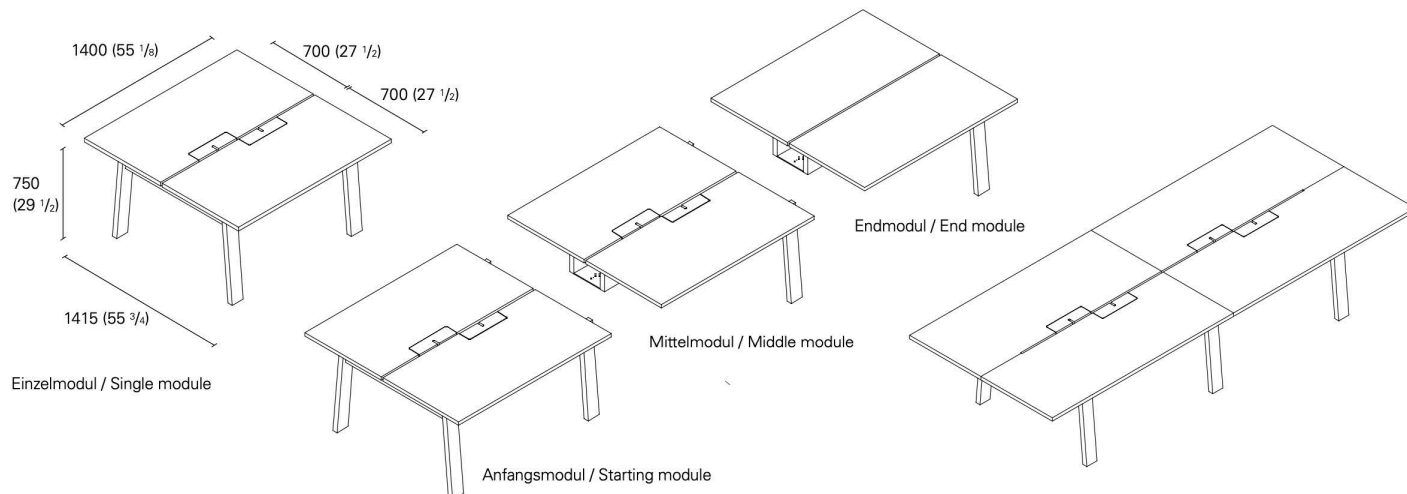

The BASIS workstation design by David Chipperfield is a smart and casual desk system stripped back to the essentials. It features the pure use of material and craftsmanship. The BASIS workstation focuses on the needs of creative and functional work environments, facilitating different styles of working without interfering with or redefining work habits. The system is equipped with diverse possibilities for wire management and various types of partitions for privacy as well as acoustic or magnetic features that can be easily inserted into the table without the use of additional hardware. Offering flexible solutions for the home or office, BASIS workstation is designed to allow solo work as well as a collaboration by combining any number of individual desks to work islands.
