

LEBEAU OUTDOOR TABLE PATRICK JOUIN

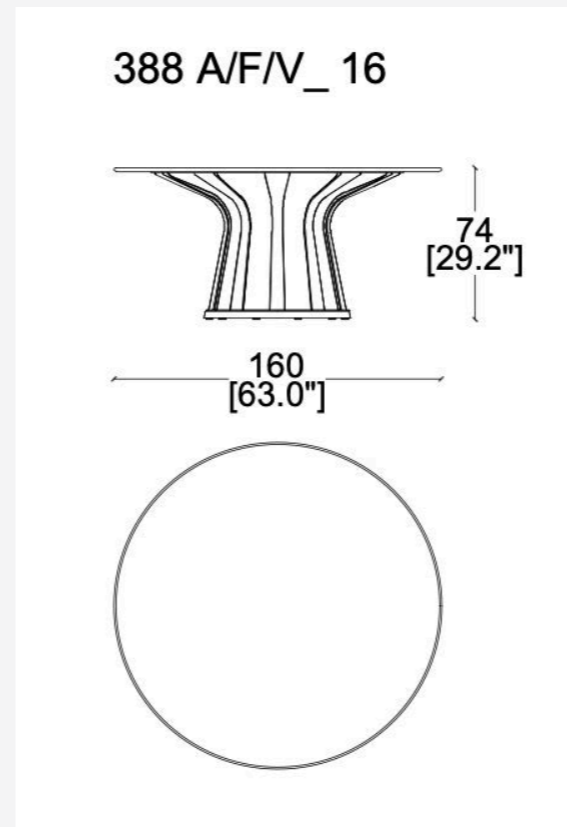

DESCRIPTION

Following the success of the first model in 2003 and then the wood version in 2017, the Lebeau round table makes its way outdoors in 2022. Patrick Jouin's architectural design receives an update in aluminum, a material selected for its durability, lightweight, and long life span. On this evolving technical and aesthetic journey, the table retains its iconic silhouette but with an updated design reducing the number of staves from 22 to ten. In a crescendo of proportions, this architectural structure branches out from the central column with tubular sections that become thinner as they converge toward the center. The overall effect is an enchanting visual symphony as light passes through them. Lebeau Outdoor maintains the expressive originality of its archetype while, in this new context, is a transformative piece, appearing to bloom, perpetuating the dialogue between nature and design.
